Reds Shell 35 Bases and Towns

SAIGON (UPI) — Guerrilla gunners shelled 35 targets during the night, inflicting the costliest American casualties since early December, in a wave of stepped-up shelling that coincided with the most B52 raids in three months.

The bombing campaign and shelling intensified as seven U.S. Marine units totaling 1,153 men left for home today as part of President Nixon's third phase withdrawal of 50,000 men by April 15.

Military spokesmen said nine Americans were killed Thursday in an explosion that destroyed a UH34D Navy Seahorse helicopter near the Mekong Delta city of Long Xuyen. Military spokesmen said the cause of the explosion was unknown.

The guerrillas bombarded 35 bases and towns across South Vietnam with rockets and mortar rounds in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today. The attacks killed six Americans and wounded 23 others. It was the heaviest U.S. death toll in shelling since seven men were killed in a guerrilla offensive last Dec. 2.

Shells hit the U.S. Army's Vietnam headquarters at Long Binh, 18 miles northeast of Saigon, and the base camp of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division's 1st Brigade near Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of the capital. Most of the casualties were reported at Tay Ninh.

The B52s dropped more than 1,500 tons of bombs in 10 raids on what were described as guerrilla troop concentrations, bunkers and base camps in the northern quarter, the Central Highlands and two provinces bordering Cambodia to the north of Saigon.

Ground fire shot down a Marine A4 Skyhawk jet fighter Thursday two miles east of Da Nang but the pilot escaped injury. It was the first U.S. jet downed since Oct. 15, 1969.

In a further step in the Vietnamization program, the United States turned over to the South Vietnamese today its sub area command base at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon.

A unit of the U.S. 11th

Armored Cavalry Regiment lost one man killed and six wounded in a 25-minute exchange of gunfire with guerrillas 66 miles northwest of Saigon, also on the Cambodian border. Guerrilla losses were unknown.

In the largest action involving South Vietnamese troops, a battalion backed by fighter-bomber strikes and artillery reported killing 23 guerrillas 160 miles southwest of Saigon, near the tip of South Vietnam. The government troops lost two killed and seven wounded.

Guerrillas ground fire shot down a U.S. 101st Airborne Division light observation helicopter Thursday 32 miles west-southwest of Hue. The crew was rescued.

U.S.-Backed Laos Troops Protect American Bases

VIENTIANE (UPI)—A U.S.-supported hill tribe general has deployed his troops along a 55-mile mountain front in an attempt to stop the North Vietnamese assault in Laos and save two major American support bases.

Military sources said today Maj. Gen. Vang Pao has his troops positioned on hilltops that rise to 7,000 feet stretching from the junction of Highways 7 and 13 to an area north of the two U.S. bases at San Thong and Long Cheng, his headquarters.

North Vietnamese troops with tanks drove Vang Pao's so-called clandestine army from the Plain of Jars last week and pushed westward toward the key highway junction and southward toward the U.S. camps.

"They could probably take them (the American bases) if they want to make the effort and pay the price," one source said of the North Vietnamese, estimated to be 20,000 men strong, outnumbering the Lao-tians two to one.

If San Thong and Long Cheng fell, the government defenders would have to fall back to the south and base themselves in Vientiane itself, 60 miles below Long Cheng.

Three newsmen who penetrated Long Cheng earlier this week reported seeing dozens of Americans there in civilian clothes, apparently Central Intelligence Agency advisers, and scores of U.S. planes being used to support the Laotian defense effort.

From Washington, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Thursday the United States has no ground troops fighting in Laos but does have warplanes bombing Communist movements that threaten U.S. troops in South Vietnam.

Laotian military officials said a North Vietnamese battalion, moving out of the Plain of Jars, has taken up positions in the villages of Ban Hin Tang and Phasay, threatening the U.S. enclave at San Thong.

This battalion, about 600 men strong, launched a probing attack against government troops in the area Thursday but Laotian spokesmen said they had no reports of casualties.

Field reports said the North Vietnamese offensive was spreading not only south and west from the Plain of Jars but also northeast.

The guerrilla drive westward from the plain toward the junction of national Highways 7 and 13 has stalled three miles short of the crossroads by government troops with artillery backed by air strikes, according to Laotian commanders.

Eighteen miles northeast of the plain, royal Lao troops came under attack Thursday but reported turning back the assault, described as another "feeling out" probe. The fighting occurred at the village of Buom Long, crowded with thousands of civilian refugees from the guerrilla takeover of the plain last Saturday.

Informed sources said all Laotian troops reported missing in fighting on the plain have been accounted for. But, they said, no information is available on exact government losses except the report they were "light."

Viet Massacre...Commander Defends 5 Accused Marines

LANDING ZONE ROSS, Vietnam (UPI)—The commander of five Marines charged with murdering 16 Vietnamese women and children said today the rule of thumb in this area is "anything that moves after dark is the enemy."

Spokesmen have said the Marines were on a night ambush patrol when the alleged murders took place 2,000 yards from this camp Feb. 19. Five women and 11 children were killed.

Lt. Col. Charles G. Cooper, 42, of Clarksdale, Miss., described this region south of Da Nang as "Indian country," full of guerrilla soldiers and civilians who have chosen to stay behind to help the Viet Cong.

The jungle around Landing Zone Ross is under a strict dusk-to-dawn curfew, he said, "and the way patrols work is: Anything that moves after dark is the enemy."

The commander of the 1st Battalion, 7th Marine Regiment called the Leathernecks who have been charged with the murders as "members of my finest, most aggressive unit."

Their names have not been made public.

The Marine command on Thursday announced the arrest of the five Marines. The men were arrested on Monday, charged with murder under Article 118 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice and confined to a Marine brig south of Da Nang.

The alleged massacre came to light on the morning of Feb. 20 when villagers of Son Thang 4 discovered the 16 bodies. It was not disclosed whether the bodies were in graves or out in the open. Villagers reportedly notified a passing Marine patrol of their discovery.

A preliminary investigation was launched on Saturday which resulted in the arrest and confinement of the five members of the Marine patrol.

Son Thang Village where the alleged massacre took place is located in the Que Son Valley, scene of hard fighting between the Marines and the North Vietnamese for the past week.

A Marine spokesman said the area has been the scene of almost continuous sniper fire and booby traps since the Marines commenced operations there.

The village is located about 60 miles northwest of the village of My Lai, scene of the alleged massacre of more than 100 Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968.

A Marine spokesman said that bad weather has held up the investigation of the Son Thang incident. An on-the-spot investigation, weather permitting, has been scheduled for today.

Newsmen will be permitted to accompany the investigators, a Marine spokesman said.

The Marine command provided no details on the alleged killings or how or why they were perpetrated, pending further investigation.

Officers said the results would be reported to Major General Edwin B. Wheeler, commander of the First Marine Division who would then decide whether the five accused men would be brought before a court martial.

Meanwhile in Saigon the government granted a new trial today to the neutralist national assembly deputy sentenced two days ago to 20 years at hard labor for having ties with the Viet Cong.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said Tran Ngoc Chau, 46, had been granted his appeal for a retrial and would be brought from suburban Chi Hoa Prison Monday to face again the military court that convicted him.

Spiro Wants Drive Launched Against 'Bizarre Extremists'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has called on the nation's governors to join in a fight to drive kooks, misfits and bizarre extremists from the nation's front pages and television screens.

In a speech Thursday to the National Governors Conference, the vice president said "It is time for the political, business and academic leaders of this country to lead a figurative march back to normalcy."

Declaring that "the threat of violent revolution" is a "clear and present danger," Agnew said the greatest threat to the nation is "not the war in Vietnam, nor inflation, nor the environment... it is: Will the government of this country remain in the hands of its elected official or will it descend to the streets?"

Agnew said his concern at the current American condition was not grounded in "fear of the kooks or demagogues themselves, but in their current respectability."

"Never in our history have we paid so much attention to so many odd characters," he said. "Twenty five years ago, the tragicomic antics of such societal misfits would have brought the establishment running after them with butterfly nets rather than television cameras."

"It is in this inordinate attention to the bizarre, this preoccupation with the dramatic, this rationalization of the ridiculous, that we threaten the progress of our nation," Agnew said.

He said elected leaders can assert firm governmental authority—if they will take decisive action and are willing to "withstand the criticisms of the liberal community."

"Of equal important," he said, "we can begin to lead American opinion."

"I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of Americans will follow the lead of their governors and other elected officials if we will just launch a campaign to exert the force of public opinion to drive these bizarre extremists from their pre-emptive positions on our television screens and on the front pages of our newspapers."

National Guard troops move into Amory at Santa Barbara, Calif., after third night of violence. Story Page 18.

"Most of them need treatment more than publicity," Agnew said.

Agnew was the windup speaker at a two-day conference of the governors, who came to Washington to hear the administration report on its programs, and to talk with members of Congress about their own.

When Agnew completed his 20-minute address, the governors gave him a standing ovation, but in talking to reporters later not all the state executives agreed with the vice president's assessments.

Gov. Tom McCall, a Republican from Oregon, said he preferred a more low key approach in dealing with dissidents and demonstrators.

"I think we'll have to each respond in his own way," McCall said after the Agnew speech.

"His strategy is to shout at them," Gov. John Dempsey of Connecticut, a Democrat, said he was uncertain about how to answer Agnew's appeal for better leadership, but he called the vice president's address "a pretty good speech, a typical speech of his, in tune with the times."

Rockefeller in Kingston Next Week for Address

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will address a joint luncheon meeting of three Kingston area service clubs next Wednesday in the Gov. Clinton Hotel, according to announcement made today by Republican County Chairman Albert Spada.

Rockefeller is scheduled to speak at 12:30 p.m. to members of Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs.

Spada said that although he received word of the governor's appearance, details have not been announced. He said arrangements will possibly be made for a reception and a press conference before or after the talk.

The visit to Kingston is one of many that Gov. Rockefeller has been making in the state in recent months with emphasis on addressing service clubs.

His topics often vary and usually touch on a multitude of state programs in the field of education, welfare and conservation.

Rockefeller's appearance here leaves the door wide open for local Republican officials such as Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr., Spada and County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago to plead for state help in this area, especially with regard to the realignment of Route 209.

Ulster County has been, for many years, trying to get the State Department of Transportation moving in this direction and only recently met with some success in that a hearing on three proposed alignments of the accident-prone route has been scheduled by the state for April.

But in spite of the hearing, local officials would like to get some firm commitment that the project will get moving in the very near future.

Savago said this morning that he would definitely ask Gov. Rockefeller when Ulster County can expect action on the re-routing.

The luncheon talk marks the first time in a number of years that Gov. Rockefeller has visited Kingston. The last time was for a town-meeting type event similar to what is anticipated for next Wednesday.

Fiscal Health— Road Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has fresh evidence inflation is abating, but one of the President's keys to fiscal health—$2 billion in federal spending cuts—is just beginning to wend its uncertain way through Congress.

President Nixon asked Congress Thursday to trim or abolish 57 government programs from school milk subsidies to the board of tea tasters.

He conceded many of the programs, several dear to the hearts of congressmen, will be strongly resisted. But the cuts appear necessary for a 1971 fiscal budget surplus, an important segment of the administration's anti-inflation game plan.

While Nixon was outlining his economy program, the Labor Department reported the rise in wholesale prices tapered off this month, while the Commerce Department said its monthly index of leading indicators—designed to foreshadow broad economic trends—declined 1.8 per cent in January, its steepest drop since 1957.

Wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 3.6 per cent, the preliminary February figures showed. This is less than half the January rate and may be an indication consumer prices will begin to respond to the administration's anti-inflation program before too long.

The monthly increase was three-tenths of one per cent, despite an unseasonably high one per cent jump in the price of farm products which raised them 8.2 per cent over the levels of a year earlier. Most of the increase was in cattle, hogs and fresh fruits.

Administration economists now predict the price spiral will slow substantially by the end of the year, although they have several times pushed back their deadlines.

The cuts Nixon needs for his predicted $1.3 billion surplus would affect several long-trenched programs, including aid to school districts where federal employees' children are educated.

Attempted Murder of Four

American Student Is Sought

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police hunted today for an American student charged with trying to kill his four Canadian college roommates by putting the larvae of a pig parasite in their food. Two of them nearly died.

Authorities identified the suspect, wanted on four attempted murder charges, as Eric Kranz, formerly of the New York City suburb of Hempstead, Long Island.

Kranz's roommates at MacDonald College told police they asked the 23-year-old student of parasitology in January to leave the house they all shared because he was behind in his rent money.

Richard Davis, 24, of Napanee, Ont., one of the four victims, said Thursday, Kranz responded by "threatening us."

He said if we tried to kick him out he'd put some parasites in our food."

The other three roommates were William Butler, 22, Richmond, Que., David Fisk, 24, St. Paul d'Abbotsford, Que., and Keith Fern, 26, Napanee.

Kranz Still Unwelcome
Davis said that Kranz paid his rent plus a month advance on Jan. 31 but was told he still was unwelcome.

Kranz left the house Feb. 14, and Quebec provincial police, who believe he may have headed for the United States, have asked New York authorities to look for him.

According to their physician, Dr. John Harrold, the four students fell ill between Feb. 11 and 13, which meant they probably were "infested" about Feb. 4.

At first they were treated for pneumonia but when their sickness persisted doctors searched for other reasons for the mysterious ailment. Finally a professor from MacDonald's Institute of Parasitology identified the parasite as "ascaris suum" which generally infests swine.

Police and doctors kept the poisonings quiet for some time, hoping to find the culprit and make the case public only last Wednesday.

Harrold said the four students were in "good, recovered" condition Thursday but at one stage, "we almost lost Davis and Butler."

Describes Effect In Pigs
Describing the effect of the parasite in pigs, Harrold said "When the egg is swallowed it goes into the intestinal tract and after several days hatch into larva. They then go to the liver, where they remain for another few days and then migrate to the lungs."

In the lungs, he said, the parasites damage blood cells and interfere with oxygen's entry to the blood. It can cause liver damage in pigs. However, he said, this was the first time the parasite has ever been found in humans, and the effects are thus not fully known.

Dr. George Dion, dean of the college said "there is obviously a twisted mentality behind this thing."

...A Drug Start at 12

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph didn't want to be left out," he said. Jesus is a heroin addict who said, "I started mainlining about year ago. He is 12. "I used to see my friend doing it and I to do it in the street—in my neighborhood. I even sold drugs in my school for $2 a bag. I had a lot of customers," he said.

The boy's matter-of-fact testimony was given Thursday before a state legislative committee hearing on drug addiction. The audience of 50 spectators and 10 legislators was hushed, leaning forward to hear his quiet voice.

"Nobody taught me, nobody forced me," the frail, 60-pound youth testified, "but I didn't want to be left out when I saw my friends use drugs." He said he had taken his last fix eight days ago.

Ralph, dressed in a red sweater and brown plaid pants, sat on the lap of Dr. Judianne Densen-Gerber, clinical director of Odyssey House, where he is receiving treatment.

He said that none of his six older brothers and sisters used drugs.

Ralph said he stole pocket books, broke into apartments and "even mugged some people" to support his habit.

Asked how he could do that, given his age and size, he said, "I did it with some of my older friends. One of them was 20 and he carried a gun."

Dr. Densen-Gerber said the boy might be exaggerating on the mugging, but added, "Even if he is, it's not the kind of story I want my children to be dreaming up."

$287 Thousand Grant for Dutchess

POUGHKEEPSIE
A federal grant in the amount of $287,015 for the Dutchess County Committee for Economic Opportunity has been announced today by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

The one-year grant will be used for program administration, program planning, neighborhood centers, job development, placement and follow-up, housing services, general co-operatives, special summer programs and economic development. Congressman Fish, whose office has been working for a number of months to get the grant approved said today he was "pleased that the grant finally has come through and that Dutchess County can continue progress in this area."

According to Stanley Leyden, director of the Dutchess OEO office, the core of the program is the neighborhood centers. Four have already been established, he explained, saying that a fifth will be opened in Red Hook in the near future. The others are located in Dover Plains, Millerton, Beacon and Poughkeepsie.

Leyden explained further that his office is undertaking a new program of economic development which encourages the providing of jobs, not only in rural areas but other areas as well. In order to help cope with the high cost of living the office has helped in the establishment of credit unions and "buying" clubs which make merchandise available at less cost. Efforts are also made to provide low-cost housing with emphasis on development in all parts of the county.

Aid also is given in the area of volunteer services, especially with regard to senior citizens and their specific problems. OEO works with such groups, assisting them in their involvement with such programs as Medicare, food stamps and welfare.

Money from Washington also came this week in the form of a contract awarded a knife company in Ellenville.

The General Services Administration (GSA) announced that the Schrade E. Walden Cutlery Corp. has been awarded a contract for an indefinite quantity of knives that could amount to as much as $268,549.

The announcement, made jointly through the offices of Congressman Fish and Senators Charles E. Goodell and Jacob K. Javits, stated that the contract would run from June 1 of this year to May 1 of next year.

According to a spokesman, if federal agencies continue to buy knives at their current rate the contract could be as high as $268,549.

The GSA is the purchasing agent for all federal government agencies except the Defense Department.

BOCES Boss on Aid—Startling Figures

By JEAN F. DOLAN
NEW PALTZ

"Startling," was Dr. Jack Roosa's summation of state aid to education figures detailed at a conference called Thursday afternoon by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

Superintendents of county schools as well as BOCES personnel were on hand at the New Paltz center to explain the effects of state aid cuts on the local level. Slides were used to illustrate the disparity in rising school costs and taxes and reduction in state aid to education.

Dr. Roosa, superintendent of Ulster County BOCES, noted that in previous years the three factors were rather closely aligned. However, for the 1968-1969 and 1969-1970 school years the total expenditures increased by 9.10 per cent; local taxes jumped 17 per cent and state aid went up only one per cent. This was compared to previous years when the ratio was 17.4 per cent increase in expenditures; 8.2 per cent increase in taxes and a 14 per cent increase in state aid.

The conference Thursday was called by BOCES as a direct result of the recent meeting of the Coalition for State Aid, and is a part of an overall plan to alert people to the tax situation which could result from state aid cuts.

Recommendations made by the New York State Education Conference Board for legislative action were given full support of local educators who urged private citizens to press for adoption of the proposals by the state legislature.

Prime recommendations from the state board include complete repeal of the 1969 formula for reductions provided for in the controversial Chapter 183 and a 20 per cent increase in operating expenditures.

Other proposals endorsed by local educators would be for the state to allow its largest cities to be members of BOCES and for the legislature to set tax limits in cities.

Dr. Roosa said that something must be done to broaden the tax base for schools. He indicated no preference for the method in which this could be done but said that serious study should be given to complete state financing with no loss in local control.

House Hands Sportsmen Major Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has handed conservationists a major victory by refusing to consider a controversial timber-cutting bill sought by the lumber industry and backed by the White House.

After hearing a member say "every single national conservation group is strongly and vigorously opposed to this legislation," the House Thursday voted 228 to 150 not to take the bill for floor action.

It was the second setback in a month for the bill, which proposed establishment of a special fund to pay for increasing the timber yield in national forests.

Conservationists feared the bill would have stepped up tree cutting to a point—without adequate replanting—that the forests would be harmed. Supporters said it was necessary to provide the lumber needed by the wood-short housing industry.

PART OF HEART DRIVE — Postman Joseph T. Bonavita takes part in the Ulster County Heart Fund Drive by delivering Not-at-Home envelopes to the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, 72 Main Street. Another Marijuana Case

Eyes of Texas on Leary

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI)—1966, on a similar charge but the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the verdict and ordered a new trial. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Ben C. Connally was scheduled to impose the sentence Monday on another marijuana case.

Leary was convicted here with his wife and son of marijuana possession Feb. 19 and Superior Court Judge Byron K. McMillan immediately revoked his bail and ordered him to jail.

McMillan cited the LSD apostle's published advice to turn on to drugs and declared, "You are an insidious, detrimental influence on society."

The U.S. Marshal's office in Los Angeles said Leary probably would be flown to Houston, Tex., during the weekend for sentencing in the federal case.

In Texas, Leary was convicted Jan. 20 of smuggling three ounces of marijuana from Mexico in a silver snuffbox stashed in his teen-age daughter's underwear. He was convicted March 11,

A Settlement Could Help Pollution Fight

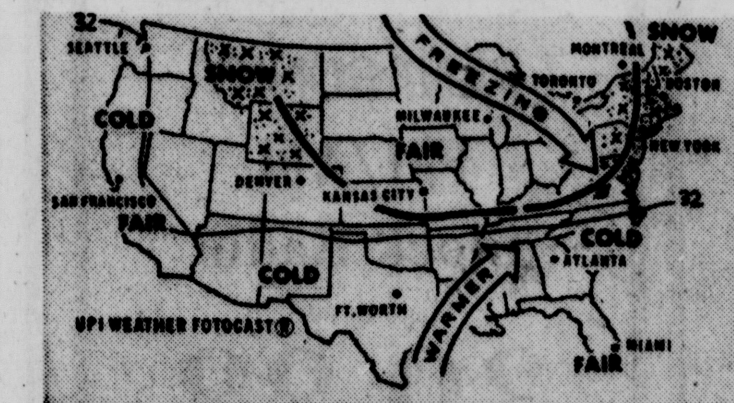

SAUGERTIES

The satisfactory legal settlement in favor of a cement company employee opened another avenue in the fight against polluted air at the Thursday night session of the Ulster County Citizens Committee for Clean Air held at the American Legion Hall here.

A report of the employee settlement indicated that help might come from the State Department of Labor and a committee was formed to set up a meeting with department officials in Albany.

The committee includes George Majestic, supervisor of the Town of Gardiner; Henry Sagazie, Dominic Tiano, Howard Wittenbecher and Philip Fox. Alfred Marquardt, vice president, presided at the meeting attended by about 65. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., will be invited to speak at the next meeting of the group at a time and place to be announced.

Wheels Set In Motion For Census

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a two-part series on the upcoming national census. Today's article tells about the importance of the census and the jobs of the enumerators.

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
With the official start of the 1970 national census about a month away, wheels have already been set in motion here in Ulster County with the testing this week of the first group of 134 enumerators to be hired. Today marked the opening of the local office in Poughkeepsie with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and community leaders in attendance. City Clerk Louis DeCicco will represent the City of Kingston; Albert Spada, County Clerk and Republican county chairman were present as well as others representing the Post Office, Chamber of Commerce and interested groups.

The office, which is located at 31 New Market Street, was officially opened with a computer tape cutting, according to Mrs. Marjorie Bronson, manager of District 28 plus Putnam County for the U. S. Department of Commerce Census Bureau.

Testing of enumerators in Ulster County has already taken place in Ellenville and in Kingston and will continue until 134 are secured in addition to nine crew leaders, according to Frank Miller, field supervisor. Nine training centers are also in the process of being located in various parts of the county. Mrs. Bronson indicated earlier this week that so far a good response has been received from persons wishing to work as enumerators. The tests they take to qualify mainly seek to find out if applicants can follow directions.

Each of the enumerators will be responsible for picking up between 300 and 500 questionnaires which Ulster County residents will receive through the mail. Contrary to television announcements emanating from cities such as Albany and New York, residents of Ulster County should "not" mail their questionnaires back to the Census Bureau. All local questionnaires will be picked up by enumerators.

Speaking of the importance of the census, both Mrs. Bronson and Miller stress that "Crucial decisions affecting every person in the nation depend on the accurateness and completeness of the census."

For example they cite the fact that political power hinges on the census count, i.e., official population figures are used to determine the fair apportionment of seats in Congress as well as in state and local legislative bodies. Further, federal funds are distributed locally on the basis of census population figures.

"Government leaders from the highest federal authorities to local officials plan and develop programs involving billions of dollars on the basis of what the census tells of the characteristics of people and their housing."

Miller pointed out that for the individual, the census is secret. No one need fear that he is exposing himself to public view. The answers he gives about himself and his housing are held in strictest confidence. Census employees are forbidden by law from disclosing any fact about a person and would be subject to heavy fine or imprisonment for violation of the law.

In seeking cooperation from the people of the district, Mrs. Bronson points to the 1970 census slogan, "We can't know where we're going if we don't know where we are."

Playwright's $500,000 Suit Is Dismissed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —The state's highest court dismissed Thursday a $500,000 suit brought by playwright Lillian Hellman in connection with the television showing of the movie, "The Little Foxes."

The Court of Appeals affirmed lower court rulings in rejecting her argument that the television showing violated terms of the contract selling movie rights to her play.

Judge John F. Scilleppi said in the opinion that the contract provisions, as written, applied only to the live broadcast of the play but not to the broadcast of the movie.

He also suggested that Samuel Goldwyn Inc. got a bargain in 1940 when the company purchased the movie and television rights for $75,000.

It would be logical to assume, he said, "that had the development of television as a medium been foreseen when the contract was made, appellant would have sought greater remuneration for the grant of television rights."

Miss Hellman brought the suit against the Columbia Broadcasting System, which has shown the movie twice on television in the last three years. She had sought $500,000 damages and an order preventing future television use of the movie.

FBI Called on Thruway Mail Heist

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Two men forced a tractor-trailer carrying mail off the State Thruway Thursday night, cut open several mail sacks and then drove the driver to New Jersey in the trunk of their car. Leon Wilson, 46, of Albany, the driver, said the two men released him at Fort Lee, N.J., and he went to the nearest police station. Authorities in two states, the FBI and postal inspectors were called into the case. An inventory was incomplete early today, but a state police spokesman said "we don't believe anything of too much importance was taken."

Wilson told police he was driving toward Albany when a car ran him off the road at the Selkirk interchange. He said two men, one carrying a sawed-off shotgun and the other with a revolver, made him get into the trunk of their car. State police said the men then broke the lock on the back of the trailer, slit open several sacks and drove off. The trailer, rented from the McCasland Leasing Corp. of Albany, was found abandoned by a Thruway police patrol about 9:15, 45 minutes after the robbery. The trailer left Albany Thursday morning for Jersey City, N.J., and was enroute back to Albany when the incident took place. Postal authorities impounded the trailer, undamaged except for the broken lock, police said.

President Nixon Asks New Powers To Deal With the Labor Disputes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress today for new powers—including compulsory arbitration to deal with labor disputes in transportation industries such as the threatened stoppage of the nation's railroads. Existing laws covering labor disputes in the transportation field are inadequate, the President said. He asked Congress to empower him to extend the present 80-day cooling-off period for up to an additional 30 days, to require partial operation of industries involved in labor disputes if needed and to impose a compulsory settlement in cases where bargaining breaks down. The last feature was expected to draw immediate opposition from the railroad unions which have always fought compulsory arbitration. In his special message to Congress, Nixon said: "Our highly interdependent economy is extraordinarily vulnerable to any major interruption in the flow of goods. Work stoppages in the railroad, airline, maritime, longshore or trucking industries are more likely to imperil the national health or safety than work stoppages in any other industries. The railroads and airlines are not subject to the Taft-Hartley law but are dealt with under a separate railway labor act. Nixon said whenever possible the government should stay out of private labor disputes, but "when the public interest requires that government step in, then it should do so through procedures which bring the current conflict to an equitable conclusion without weakening the self-reliance of future bargainers." A prolonged bargaining dispute between the railroads and four shippers' unions has brought the industry to the verge of a nationwide stoppage. Only two court injunctions have prevented a total stoppage and the present injunction is scheduled to expire Monday at 4 p. m. EST. Nixon said that the railway act's emergency provisions have been invoked 187 times in the past 45 years but work stoppages have occurred at the rate of more than one per year since 1947 despite the cooling-off period. The President told Congress the railway act "actually discourages genuine bargaining" because both sides in disputes have come to regard the government participation as a normal part of the negotiating process. Other portions of the transportation industry such as maritime, longshore and trucking industries are covered under the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley act which Nixon helped write in 1947 when he was a congressman. It provides that when the threat of a labor dispute imperils the nation's health and safety, the President may appoint a board of inquiry and petition a federal court for an 80-day cooling off period.

Boyle Pledges Union Probe On Yablonski

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle says the union will carry out its own investigation into the Joseph Yablonski family slayings. Boyle announced Thursday he is organizing an investigative commission to "hear all who desire to speak." It will meet in Pittsburgh. "We now offer a forum for those who have information to step forward," he said at a news conference. The four commissioners, all members of the union's executive board, will have the power to employ private investigators and retain lawyers, Boyle said. Boyle, who defeated Yablonski in the Dec. 9 UMW presidential election, said the commission would hold its first session as soon as possible. He said he would testify. In Clarksville, Pa., where Yablonski, his wife and daughter were found slain Jan. 5, the UMW insurgent's two sons issued a statement calling the commission an attempt to divert attention from the grand jury probe.

Approves Airport Program

Senate has approved without dissent a $15.6 billion 10-year program to modernize and expand the nation's airport system. Most of the money would come from new cargo and passenger taxes. Responding to the 77-0 vote Thursday Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said "this is one of aviation's finest hours and a day to be remembered by the American traveling public." The measure now goes to a joint conference with the House for ironing out differences with a bill passed by that body last year. The money will go into a trust fund where it will be available to states and localities on a 50-50 matching fund basis. A minimum of $5.5 billion of the $15.6 billion is earmarked for construction with at least another $4 billion for traffic control. Sponsors of the program say they are sure all the money will be used by the time the program expires in 1980.

Cure Furniture's Holiday Hangover

Holidays and the resultant indoor entertaining can be hard on furniture. So can everyday wear and tear.

No matter how careful you try to be, scratches and other marks will start to appear. Getting rid of them is a matter of knowing the right remedy for the particular ailment.

Scratches and nicks can be the most annoying and they require care and patience in repairing. Sometimes the scratch is so light it will vanish if rubbed with a cloth dampened with furniture polish to which you have added a few drops of rubbing alcohol.

A fine scratch that just barely breaks the surface can be repaired by softening the finish so that it flows together over the scratch. This requires a steady hand. With a fine brush trace over the scratch with alcohol for shellac, turpentine for varnish, lacquer thinner for lacquer.

Scratches that get into the bare wood are deep enough to need filling. Use a shellac stick which you can buy in matching shades. Sometimes rubbing across the scratch will do it. More often you will have to melt the stick and build up the batch in layers. Rub down and polish with pumice. If the patch shows, stroke on a matching oil stain with a soft brush.

Actual holes should be cleaned out with a knife to remove fragments, partly filled with plastic wood and then—when dry—treated with a shellac stick.

A hot object placed on a varnished surface will leave a milky mark. A gentle rubbing with spirits of camphor will generally remove the offending spot. Polish when dry.

Wet glasses will leave white rings. Try a mixture of olive oil and white vinegar in equal parts. Rub with the grain.

Cream wax will clean up most spots left by cosmetics, ink, wax and milk. Give the spot a vigorous rubbing in the direction of the grain.

Paper that has become damp and then stuck to the furniture (or was under a hot object) should not be scraped off. Soften by covering with olive oil. Allow it to soak and then rub off.

A tabletop burn that doesn't go right through can be eliminated with silver polish. Rub carefully, keeping the polish away from the adjoining surface. Wipe dry and then polish or wax as you usually would. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Invest in Basic Tools For Those Jobs at Home

One of the first things that there is no such thing as a free lunch. For screwdrivers, consider buying one of those sets that many hardware stores feature. There will be six or seven screwdrivers in the set, which should cover just about everything. Besides a variety of widths and thicknesses in blades, look for at least one that has a short handle to work in tight places.

Screwdrivers—You will need more than one. And at this point you should be reminded one or two with the special four-way tip for Phillips screws. Pliers—The ordinary slip-joint pliers will do for a start. Use it in time and you may later on, you will graduate to not have to resort to wrenches. Side-cutting and long-nosed pliers. So-called water-pump pliers are made so that the adjustable jaws can be set for a variety of sizes.

Wrench—Get an adjustable wrench of the crescent variety. A 10-inch one will handle most jobs but consider smaller and larger ones in time. The smooth, square-jawed monkey wrench and the pipe wrench are others to consider if you get into plumbing repairs—which you will, eventually.

Hammer—Buy a claw hammer with a forged-steel head. The 14-ounce hammer is a good all-around hammer.

Plunger—The tool known as a plumber's friend is a single-purpose tool. It is used for open-

Insect Prevention—A Year-Round Project

Fighting insects that can damage shade and fruit trees is not a job for spring and summer.

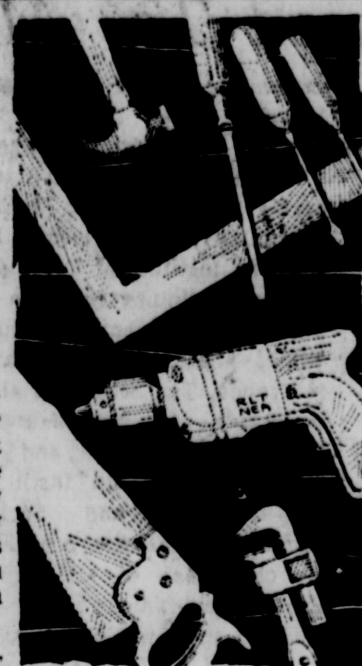

According to Dr. Richard J. Couger, entomologist at Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, the property owners should initiate control measures in late January and February.

Dormant spraying during winter months will kill insect eggs and masses and curb various scales, he advises tree owners.

"Egg masses can be found on the underside of twigs, around buds and leaf scars, and in cracks and crevices of bark. The early spring problem of tree damage caused by scale insects, cankerworms, aphids, gypsy moths, tent caterpillars, and brown-tail moths usually can be averted by a dormant spray," Dr. Couger said.

Dormant spray composed of miscible oils can be applied to most shade trees, he said. Sugar maple, beech, butternut, black walnut, Japanese maple, and some evergreens cannot safely accept this spray, however.

"Spraying must be done when the temperature is between 40 and 65 degrees F. Above and below this temperature range, the oils can cause damage.

Get the basic tools.

check the squareness of ends and sides of lumber.

Drill—A push drill is fine for starter holes for wood screws.

The electric drill comes close to being an all-purpose tool once you start investigating all the attachments you can buy for it.

Trees Now Show Winter Effects

Winter's effect on evergreens becomes evident at this time of year when winds and frost-locked soil can combine to rob trees and shrubs of their normal green color.

According to Dr. Edward L. Chandler, plant physiologist at Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, the hardest hit plantings are those on exposed corners of housing and building, usually on the southwest and southern sides.

"Drying winds take moisture from the leaves; and—because roots are locked in frozen soil—moisture can't be taken up to replenish that lost to the winds," Dr. Chandler explained.

Severe winter kill often results when these conditions persist over an extended period. The Bartlett scientist said. This is why such damage becomes more noticeable in late winter.

To help restore tree health, Dr. Chandler recommends judicious pruning and liberal feeding of all injured trees and shrubs.

"Heavy winds in sub zero cold can kill or seriously damage many trees and shrubs," Dr. Chandler warns. "The property owner would be wise to inspect his trees now and plan remedial action."

Sisterhood Tea March 18

Mrs. Henry Jacobs, president of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel, has announced that the Sisterhood will hold a tea on Wednesday, March 18, to benefit the Combined Campaign and Residence Hall Fund of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. This function is part of a nationwide campaign sponsored by the National Womens League of the United Synagogues of America to raise $1,000,000 for the Seminary's academic program and for the construction of the Mathilde Schechter Residence Hall for women studying at the Seminary's New York campus.

The multi-phased academic program of the Seminary includes the training of rabbis, religious school teachers, cantors, and scholars for the Jewish community. At its Herbert H. Lehman Institute of Talmudic Ethics, continuing research is pursued in ancient Talmudic Ethics and its contemporary relevance. The Seminary also maintains a world-famous Library of Judaica, and is justly proud of its Institute of Religious and Social Studies, a graduate program for clergymen of all faiths. The world-famous Jewish Museum in New York is also maintained by the Seminary. "The Eternal Light" radio and television presentations are also sponsored by this institution.

"The vital programs and services enumerated above need the support of every Sisterhood woman who is concerned with the perpetuation of Conservative Judaism," stated Mrs. Jacobs. The tea, which will be held at her home on East Drive, Elmendorf heights, will begin at 1 p.m. A minimum donation to the Fund will be requested of those attending. The Torah Fund cards and Torah Fund Boxes will be applied to this amount. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Sidney Samuels, Combined Campaign Chairman, for the local Sisterhood or Mrs. Irving Reuben.

Also serving on the committee for the benefit are the Mmes: Harry Z. Scheidman, Ephraim Prepp, and Seymour Semelof.

Perry-Stay Wedding Told

Miss Cheryl Ann Perry daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Perry of Jamestown, N.Y., became the bride of James F. Stay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman W. Stay Sr. of Saugerties, on Saturday, Feb. 14 at Stillwater United Methodist Church in Jamestown.

The Rev. R. John Rough officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Darlene Pearson, organist, accompanied William White who sang traditional wedding selections. Baskets of white gladioli, lavender chrysanthemums, and pink carnations with lighted candelabra decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon velvet styled with an empire bodice, rolled collar, long fitted sleeves with fur cuffs and an A-line skirt. At the back empire line was a chapel length train. Her chapel length mantilla was attached to a pillbox and was edged with Venice lace.

Miss Donna Perry of Jamestown was maid of honor for her sister in a purple velvet gown fashioned with an empire bodice a stand-up collar of white Venice lace, and long sleeves with Venice lace at the cuffs. She carried a white fur muff trimmed with lilies.

Mrs. Marion Vail, sister of the bridegroom, Saugerties, was matron of honor. She wore a gown identical in styling to that of the maid of honor and both attendants wore headpieces of white fur and purple illusion.

Nelson Burhans of West Camp served as best man. Ushers were Everett Vail, bridegroom, Saugerties; and John Wall of Jamestown.

An afternoon tea for 125 guests was held in the church hall.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When one of my sons became an apprentice mechanic and worked in a service station, I nearly went out of my mind.

Especially since the shower is in the tub and that is where my sons wash their hair too. So this is what I do (after his shower):

I take that good old nylon net puff and pour a couple of tablespoons of the thick heavy-duty liquid detergent on the net ball and smear it around in the tub, washbasin and shower, then go back later and rub the tile down.

You don't even have to rub hard since most of the "dirt" is really oily film!

I keep one of those rubber shower hoses in the tub enclosure and just swish the grime away with that. The tub rinses sparkling clean without any gritty residue.

... Mother

Dear Heloise: Why, oh why, do wives wear their husbands' house-shoes when they are way, way too big for them anyway?

Not only does my wife run them over, but she never puts them in MY closet but in HERS.

'Evening of Japanese Dances'

The Performing Arts of Woodstock will present "An Evening of Japanese Dances." Saturday, 8:30 p.m. at the Woodstock Elementary School, Route 375, near 375 212 intersection.

The art of Kabuki, usually just a strange and exotic Oriental name to most becomes living theatre. The first part of the program will be a lecture demonstration, briefly sketched, the origins and history of Kabuki. Then in short excerpts, the nature of the art itself, emphasizing the fact that this form of Japanese theatre is an actor's art, and that often acting, dance and mime are one. Various elements of body control can transform an actor from a male to female character and the manner in which simple elements of costume or props are used to suggest illusion — the sleeve of a kimono becomes a bottle from which "sake" is being poured. A fan becomes a mirror, waves of the sea, falling snow, leaves, a sword, a fishing rod, anything at all, as the suggestive movements of the actor stimulate the imagination to complete the artistic illusion.

The second half of the program will be a more extended presentation in full costume with selections from the Kabuki theatre and Japanese dances. Although seeing only brief excerpts in this performance, the feeling of Japanese theatre is effectively conveyed: for the roots of the drama of Japan are in dance, in movement rather than dialogue, in symbolic mimicry and the aesthetics of motion. The important aspect of this drama is its performance. The audiences usually know the stories in advance, and in the performance, the theatre becomes a place of magic, frankly a theatre, a platform for presentation of virtuosity, artistry, and beauty.

Miyoko Watanabe and her personally trained troupe of six girls will perform. Miyoko Watanabe started her training at the age of six. She later joined an all-girls Kabuki troupe, the Shoji Kabuki, and became one of its leading members, playing a wide range of roles from young maidens to toothless old men. She received intensive training in Tokyo in Kabuki acting, choreography and music. She has the unusual distinction of being awarded three professional titles. The first title, Fujima Nishiki, was received from Kabuki choreographer, Fujima Kanjuro VI; the title Ichikawa Bisho, she received from Ichikawa Danjuro XI, one of the highest titles in Kabuki; and the title Kinoya Einshiki in "nagata" from Kinoya Eizamon. In addition to her achievements as an actor, she is a leading scholar of Kabuki, a translator of plays, and a director of distinction.

For information regarding tickets and reservations, contact Edith Le Fever, Clover Street, West Hurley. Group and student rates are available.

UCCC to Offer 'Dressing by Design' Course

With the aim of helping women to improve their appearance, Ulster County Community College will offer a short non-credit course entitled "Dressing by Design," dealing with clothing selection, Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

It will be given on five Thursday evenings from 8 to 10 o'clock at the College's Stone Ridge campus from April 30 to May 28.

As part of the course, five half-hour films will be shown. They were produced by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of California, and were used there as a television short course where 23,000 persons were enrolled.

Each film will be followed by an activity period of approximately one and a half hours. The goal of the activity period is to give each woman attending a true conception of herself.

In the first class session there will be a brief resume of women's fashions in the past, and women attending will be taught how to chart a figure silhouette.

Using the individual silhouette, women at the second class will learn to let their figure proportions guide them in their line plan for their wardrobe.

At the third class, women will learn about texture in clothing and how it affects the appearance of the individual. Various fabric samples of different textures will be examined.

At the fourth session, class members will be taught how to make personal choices in clothing selection.

The fifth session is entitled "Choosing Becoming Colors." At this class, women will use consumer color charts produced by the Munsell Color Company to study color in great detail.

The course instructor will be Mrs. Louise K. Breitung, who is an extension home economist with the Home Economics Division of the Ulster County Extension Service. She is a graduate of Russell Sage College with a major in home economics and has done graduate work in textiles and clothing at the University of Rhode Island. She is heard each week over Stations WKNY and WGHQ with a program of interest to homemakers.

Further information about the course can be obtained by calling or writing the Office of Continuing Education at the College.

KINGSTON They'll be singing Auld Lang Syne to Jerry Moss and four other Ulster County Community College players tonight, when UCCC takes on Marist College Frosh of Poughkeepsie in the final home game of the 1969-70 season at the Municipal Auditorium.

Moss, the first 1,000-point scorer in Ulster history, makes his swansong along with Ray Lindhorst, Tony Pough, Larry Trippodo, and Ed Torrioni. The shaky Senators need a big victory to psyche themselves for the perils that lie ahead in the Region XV tournament which starts March 5 at Middletown.

Moss might be just the man to trigger that kind of explosion for UCCC. Jerry has been treading a rocky road in recent outings and like the team, he also needs a superior effort.

Coach Perry Wonders

Ulster was tired, sluggish and apathetic against New York CC Wednesday night, leading Coach Mike Perry to wonder if "we really deserve a place in the regional tournament." Maybe the Senators have become satiated with success and need the big challenge. One thing is certain—they'll find it in Middletown.

Moss' 20 points against NYCCC sent his two-year career mark to 1,014 points. He from an opening game loss to scored 563 points in 27 games Broome Tech at Binghamton to for a 20.8 average to date has 451 dropping a 3-pointer to the West and in 24 games to date has 451 dropping a 3-pointer to the West and in 24 games to date has 451 dropping a 3-pointer to the West points or an 18.8 average. He Point Plebes at the Academy. They obviously miss Kirkwood performer in UCCC cage his UCCC shouldn't play games with Marist tonight. They should go out and register a smashing victory and pick up the momentary contributions to Ulster's outstanding season. Gary Kirkwood, a great rebounder and scorer, was lost earlier because of academics.

UCCC figures to handle the Marist Frosh with ease and give Coach Mike Perry his 98th career victory and extend the club's home streak to 29 straight wins.

The Team That Isn't But, inexplicably, this isn't the Ulster team that rebounded 6:15 p.m.

Tonight's game will be preceded by a preliminary between Ray Chevrolet, repeat champions in the YMCA League, and Saugerties All Stars, starting at 6:15 p.m.

KHS Bids for Second Place

By JIM MASSA

KINGSTON Kingston High travels to Newburgh Free Academy tonight with high hopes of finishing in second place in the DUSO basketball league. The Maroons' chances are not predicated on a win over Newburgh, but rather on the outcome of the Middletown-Port Jervis contest.

Kingston will be given the second berth in the Section 9 tournament, if Port Jervis defeats Middletown even though the Raiders and Maroons had equal 4-4 records. Middletown would be 3-5. But Port is a Class B school, so Kingston gets the second Class A bid without a playoff.

However, if Middletown defeats Port Jervis that will force a playoff between the Middies and Maroons, since both are Class A schools with equal 4-4 records. That playoff, if necessary, would take place at a neutral court early next week.

Want Clear Cut Win

Kingston would like nothing more than to eliminate all of the above possibilities with a win over Newburgh. But that's not likely. The Maroon suffered its worst defeat in the history of the school in the first meeting between the two clubs, 85-37, and that was at home.

The Maroons have come on strong in the second half of the season for a club that started with no returnees of any kind. It has been a long time since any club at KHS or any other school was completely wiped out by graduation.

Coach Rienzo said at the beginning of the season that, "If I can keep the spirit of the team intact for the first half of the season," he knew they would win at least five games. Rienzo has won six games to date. Not bad at all for a first year varsity basketball coach who had to build his own club.

Four of Last Seven

In its last seven games Kingston has won four. The wins are over Port Jervis, Monticello, Middletown and Arlington, while the defeats came at the hands of two strong upstate teams, Albany and Troy once.

Rocky Johnson has had a hot hand for the Maroons in the last two games scoring 21 against Middletown and 25 at Arlington for a two-game total of 46 points. Jim Carroll has been steady around the 12-13 point mark the last few games.

UCAL LEAGUE

Rondout, without a doubt in anybody's mind, will move into a tie for the top spot with Highland, as they travel to play at Wallkill in the last UCAL regular league game. Highland has finished with a 10-2 mark while Rondout is now 9-2. Wallkill is winless in 10 starts and doesn't figure to top Pete Koola and company in our estimation.

Other UCAL action shows Onteora at home against Pine Bush and New Paltz at Marlboro. These games should in no way affect the present standings of the third through seventh place teams.

Maroon Qualifies 3 Freestylers; O'Hara Favored in Backstroke

NEW PALTZ

Kingston High School swimmers got off to a flying start in Section 9 qualifying heats here Thursday, placing three men in the 400-yard freestyle finals and three in the diving competition. Favored Highland Falls, led by Jack Ryan Jr.'s record shattering performance, also placed three in the six-man finals. The Kingston qualifiers are Fred Robinson, who placed second; Allan DeForest (5th) and Dennis Roth (6th.).

Ryan, son of the West Point swim coach, splashed to an unbelievable time of 4 minutes, 19.6 seconds to shave nearly three seconds off his own 4:22.3 set a year ago.

Robinson, Kingston's long distance ace, was second in 4:31.7. DeForest was clocked at 5:05 and Roth at 5:09.7. Larry Buckley and Quay Snyder finished 3-4 for the Fallsmen.

Good Diving Trials

Kingston showed surprising strength in the diving prelims. Three men were dropped at the end of the first round. All three Kingston entries survived.

Newburgh Academy's brilliant Chip Copeland led as expected with 144.30 points and the Goldbacks also took second and third.

Mark Ohlson was Kingston's top finisher in sixth place with 103.75 points. Brian Williams was 8th with 95.65 and Tom Loneragan 12th on 85.20 points.

There were five qualifying dives Thursday. Three more are scheduled Saturday morning and the final three Saturday afternoon.

Switch in Seedings

A switch in seedings has established Mike O'Hara of Kingston as the favorite in the 100 yard backstroke event. It came about like this, according to Coach Ron Gabriele of Kingston High:

When the seedings were publicly announced for the backstroke event, the name of Highland Falls' Jim Ross was missing. Ross only happens to be the No. 1 backstroke in the section.

It seems, according to Gabriele that Ross informed his coach, Paul DuBois, that he would not swim in the 100 yard backstroke, but preferred to swim in the 100 yard freestyle in an attempt to break Section 9 record of 52.1 held by Kingston's Charles Plunket. DuBois acceded to Ross' request in the interests of team harmony and the move automatically put the favorite's mantle on Mike O'Hara.

Finals are scheduled Saturday at the State University Elting Gym pool.

The results:
100 Yard Freestyle
1. Jack Ryan, Highland Falls 4:19.6
2. Fred Robinson, Kingston 4:31.7
3. L. Buckley, Highland Falls 4:38.4
4. Quay Snyder, Highland Falls 4:52.4
5. Alan DeForest, Kingston 5:05.0
6. Dennis Roth, Kingston 5:09.7

Bitter, Battling Swoboda Signs It

(By Associated Press)

Ron Swoboda and the New York Mets are closer together today ... and perhaps farther apart, too.

Swoboda arrived at the world champs' spring training base in St. Petersburg, Fla., Thursday with a signed contract in his pocket and a frown on his face. He was the last Met to report, and apparently the least satisfied of New York's World Series heroes.

"I'm bitter," said the strapping outfielder, who had held out briefly for a $50,000 contract but settled for about $40,000. "I am not happy with the money. I am ashamed to look my wife in the face. I feel I let my family down. I compromised myself too much. I've been sick for days."

"I feel he was treated fairly," countered Bob Scheffing, the Mets' new general manager. "If he wasn't satisfied, why did he sign?"

"I just didn't want to upset what the team has here," explained Swoboda, who batted just .235 last season but contributed heavily to the Mets' September pennant drive and then sparked at bat and in the field in their Series triumph over Baltimore. "It's a great feeling of togetherness and I didn't want to be the one to hurt it."

While Swoboda ruefully accepted a $6,000 pay hike from the Mets, St. Louis signed speedster Lou Brock, whose .298 batting average paced the club last season, for a reported $90,000 ... about $5,000 above his 1969 figure. That left two Cardinals ... slugger Richie Allen and southpaw pitcher Steve Carlton ... unsigned.

Carlton, a 17-game winner whose 19 strikeouts against the Mets in a late-season game bettered the major league record, said he has come down from an original demand of double his $25,000 salary last year but the Cardinals "won't budge."

Allen reportedly wants $140,000 for his first season with St. Louis, which acquired him in the multi-player deal that sent Curt Flood and Tim Lincecum to Philadelphia. "He'll be here," Brock assured. "He's got a history of holding out, but he wants to play baseball."

Reggie Jackson, the Oakland Athletics' sensational young slugger, admitted he and club owner Charles O. Finley still were "very far apart" in salary negotiations.

Bobby Murcer, Horace Clarke and Jerry Kenney still were missing as the New York Yankees worked out at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and five Los Angeles players, including pitcher Don Sutton and Bill Singer, were absentees from the Dodgers' Vero Beach, Fla., camp.

Outfielder Bob Tolson, one of seven unsigned Cincinnati standouts, turned down the Reds' latest offer and the Atlanta Braves had not heard from first baseman Orlando Cepeda.

All become official holdouts if they don't report by Sunday, March 1.

Bobby Bonds, San Francisco's young outfield star, arrived at the Giants' Casa Grande, Ariz., base; Ron Santo was among four newcomers as the Chicago Cubs drilled at Scottsdale, Ariz., and shortstop Leo Cardenas checked into the Minnesota Twins' camp at Orlando, Fla.

Washington's Frank Howard, bidding for a two-year, $250,000 pact, was expected to make an appearance shortly at Pompano Beach, Fla., where Ted Williams' Senators train.

The Dodgers' Andy Kosko sprained his left ankle stepping in a hole at Vero Beach and will be sidelined for two or three days. Pitchers Mel Stottlemyre and Bill Burbach of the Yanks also were out of commission temporarily after suffering reactions from their mandatory flu shots.

Suns Dim Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — The Phoenix Suns outshot the Detroit Pistons, 24-9, during a six-minute flurry in the second period, on their way to a 131-123 National Basketball Association victory Thursday night.

In winning, the Suns stretched their hold on the fourth and final playoff position in the Western Division to a game and a half over the Seattle SuperSonics.

It was the only game scheduled in the NBA Thursday. In the only American Basketball Association action Thursday, Pittsburgh knocked off Kentucky 113-106.

Phoenix's Connie Hawkins drilled in ten points during the second period uprisings which lifted the Suns from a 51-42 deficit to a 66-60 halftime lead.

Dave Bing propelled a Piston comeback late in the fourth period to bring Detroit within two points of the Suns.

Hawkins tossed in 33 points for the winners, while Bing sank 32 for Detroit.

The Suns are locked in a four-team battle for the last playoff spot in the NBA's Western Division.

Ford Stuck With a "40"

Marr and McGowan Share 67 Doral Tie

MIAMI (AP)—Jack McGowan put his game on the shelf for a while. Dave Marr put his financial house in order and Doug Ford put himself out of business.

The veteran Ford, 22 years on the pro tour, signed his scorecard which had a 40 for the score on the ninth hole, was charged with that, and took a 116 total in the first round of the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

"I don't remember writing in the 40," Ford said. "I just remember writing the 79 total and signing it."

The 40 was his total for the first nine holes. But the figure appeared in the blank for the ninth hole, and under the rules of golf, Ford was stuck with it when he signed the card.

A similar incident occurred in the 1968 Masters when Roberto de Vicenzo signed an incorrect card and was knocked out of a tie for first place in the Masters.

Marr, who hasn't won since he took the 1965 PGA Championship, and the veteran McGowan, meanwhile shared the first round lead with five-under-par 67s on the lake-lined, 7,028 yard blue course at the Doral Country Club.

Marr, a personable 36-year-old who has been in a slump for five years, said he had had "too many things on my mind."

But now I have my program, my goals, better organized. Some nice things have happened to me and I have a little more confidence."

McGowan, a dour little veteran of 10 years on the tour whose only previous victory was almost seven years ago in something called the Mountain View Open, said a rest—"I just put my game on the shelf"—may account for his fine round.

They held a two-stroke lead over a half dozen others, headed by hard-hitting Dan Sikes going into today's second round. Sikes was tied at 69 with Charles Coody, Jim Colbert, Larry Hinson, Dave Stockton and Brian Barnes, a rookie pro and a member of Britain's Ryder Cup team.

British Open Champion Tony Jacklin was in another bunch of six at 70, with Arnold Palmer still very much in contention at 71. Julius Boros had an 80, PGA Champ Ray Floyd had a 75, Master title-holder George Archer had a 74 and U.S. Open Champion Orville Moody took a 73.

Ford, of course, had the toughest break of them all. He withdrew from the second round with the sponsor's permission. Dudley Wysong, who scored for him, said, "The 40 isn't in my writing. He must have done it. But I must have left the score on the ninth hole blank."

Fowler on State Squad

Peter Fowler of the Kingston High School ski team has been named one of 10 skiers who will represent Section 9 in the State Intersectional tournament, March 13-14-15 at Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks.

Fowler, who led Kingston's DUSO champions four times this season, is seeded No. 9. Top seed is Mike McGlynn of Minerva, who captured the combined title at the Section 9 in both boys and division in the sectional. Ontario High girls and Suffern High boys captured the team titles. McGlynn shared the individual title with Frosty Goffredi of Kingston.

There is no girls competition in the state intersectionals. The three-day event features the downhill on March 13, giant slalom and cross country on March 14 and slalom on the final day. Fowler is expected to pass up the cross country, his coach, Dick Schaefer said.

Section Two (Johnstown) is the defending team champion, while Hodge is defending champion in the downhill.

George Hawes of Washingtonville is the official team coach. Coach Schaefer of Kingston is the Section 9 chairman.

Kansas State in NCAA

By United Press International
Kansas State University is the latest entrant in the NCAA basketball sweepstakes today while Davidson and Texas-El Paso are a big step closer to a shot at the championship.

The Wildcats of Kansas State, ranked 20th in the country, earned a berth in the NCAA Midwest regionals by beating Colorado, 79-69, Thursday night. It marked the ninth Big Eight conference title for Kansas State in 15 years.

Another set of Wildcats, this bunch from Davidson, routed Virginia Military Institute, 72-46, in the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament, the winner of which gains automatic entry into the East regionals. Davidson swept through to the regular season title in the Southern Conference, and is the odds-on favorite to survive the playoffs at Charlotte, N.C.

Texas-El Paso, winner of the NCAA crown in 1968 when the school was known as Texas Western, climbed into first place in the Western Athletic Conference by beating Brigham Young, 81-70, while Utah was dropping a 93-74 verdict to New Mexico. Texas-El Paso can clinch the WAC title by beating Utah at home on Saturday.

Jerry Venable scored 31 points as Kansas State registered its 16th consecutive home court success and boosted its overall record to 19-5. Colorado, now 12-12, trailed by only a single point, 36-35, at halftime and moved ahead early in the second half. But the Buffs couldn't maintain their momentum once Cliff Meely fouled out.

Thirteenth-ranked Davidson, although playing without top scorer Bryan Adrian, who injured a foot in practice Wednesday, raced away to a 36-17 halftime lead against VMI and played most of the second half with reserves. Mike Maloy led the Wildcat attack with 15 points.

Davidson next plays William and Mary, an 82-67 victor over Furman, and in tonight's other Southern Conference semi-final it will be Richmond against George Washington. Richmond upset East Carolina, 75-73, and George Washington edged the Citadel, 66-64, Thursday.

Mike Switzer scored 22 points and Nate Archibald added 17 for Texas-El Paso, which led by only two points at halftime. UTEP was able to take a half-game lead in the Western Athletic Conference when Utah fell flat against a red-hot New Mexico team.

New Mexico scored 19 points in a row in the closing minutes of the first half to take a 49-34 lead and Utah was able to do little about it in the second half. Willie Long of New Mexico took game honors with 28 points.

Sixth-ranked Jacksonville and 19th-ranked Utah State, both headed for the NCAA, had to overcome halftime deficits to post wins Thursday night. The Dolphins, trailing 47-41 at the intermission, overcame Georgia Tech, 86-81, and Utah State, which trailed 44-40 at the half, whipped West Texas State, 83-61, while Santa Clara nipped Loyola, 74-70.

Bad Night for Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was a good night for ex-New York players around the National Hockey League but not particularly enjoyable for the current Rangers.

New York absorbed a 5-3 whipping in Boston Thursday as the pursuing Bruins closed to within two points of the Rangers in the East Division standings. Most of the damage was done by scrappy John McKenzie, an ex-Ranger.

In Pittsburgh, three other ex-Rangers combined on the play that led to the only goal of the game as goalie Al Smith blanked Los Angeles 1-0.

In the only other NHL games, Chicago edged Philadelphia 3-2 (NBC); Pro bowling, $45,000 Greater Buffalo Open, Depeve, N.Y. 3-30 p.m. (ABC); Wide World of Sports including pro ski championship at Berber, Switzerland (tape), 5 p.m. (ABC).

Two Jordanians Suspected Of Involvement in Crash

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Two Jordanians wanted for the bombing of an Austrian airliner last Saturday also are suspected of being involved in the fatal crash of the Swiss airliner bound for Israel the same day, Swiss police said today.

The police said they had received a West German warrant for the arrest of Kaddoumi of Quaddoumi Sufian and Mussa Badawi Jawher, both of Amman. West German authorities advised Federal Attorney Hans Walder the two men were believed to have crossed from Germany into Switzerland in a cream-colored automobile with German license plates.

The Austrian plane, a Caravelle jet, landed at Frankfurt after a bomb exploded in its baggage hold and tore a hole in the hull. All aboard got off safely.

The Swiss jetliner crashed shortly after it took off from Zurich, killing all 47 persons aboard. Radio messages from the pilot indicated there had been an explosion in the baggage compartment, and although the investigation has not been completed, Swiss authorities said there is a strong suspicion of sabotage. Arab terrorists generally are blamed.

Walder told a news conference German authorities advised his office the two suspects were believed to have bought an altimeter and a transistor radio in Germany to fabricate the bomb that exploded in a mailbag in the Austrian plane. The bomb was in a parcel mailed to Jerusalem from a German post office by two men.

Walder said the German authorities also advised that there were other sales of similar equipment in Germany at the same time under suspect circumstances.

"The fact that the still not fully explained explosion in the Swiss plane and that in the Austrian aircraft took place the same day very probably is not just a coincidence," he added.

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli military command reported today one Israeli soldier was killed and two wounded Thursday night after a day of repeated artillery exchanges with Egyptian forces across the Suez Canal.

The Egyptians recently have been concentrating on low-level air attacks across the waterway rather than on artillery bombardments which were a daily feature of the fighting only a few months ago.

A military spokesman also reported that three Arab guerrillas were foiled in an attempt to sabotage a settlement in upper Galilee, near the Lebanese border.

The guerrillas fled after guards spotted them, the spokesman added. He said an explosive charge that had been placed under one house was dismantled.

Hand grenade explosions today killed an Arab boy and wounded 39 other persons, including three Israeli soldiers in the occupied Gaza Strip, the military command said.

One grenade was tossed at an Israeli civilian car as it passed through Gaza's busy fish market. None of the occupants was injured.

Shortly after, another grenade was thrown at an Israeli army patrol at Gaza's Red Cross headquarters. The soldiers were wounded in this blast, a spokesman said.

In all, 36 Gaza Arabs were wounded, several seriously. The dead youth was identified as a 13-year-old Gaza resident.

The army began a house-to-house search of the area and several arrests were made.

Today, were "on an altogether different basis." They were sponsored by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the appropriations bill would be followed Monday by consideration of the Voting Rights Act. He said President Nixon's nomination of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court would come next.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., refused to convene his Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday to consider competing proposals for the Voting Rights Act. The committee's failure to act boosted automatically the House-passed administration version, which Southern senators prefer, to the Senate calendar.

The administration bill would ban literacy tests as a condition for voting anywhere, and would let the U.S. attorney general send federal examiners and election observers to any spot suspected of discrimination.

But Ribicoff said the "freedom of choice" and "busing" amendments in a $19 billion Labor-HEW appropriations bill, which went before the Senate Liberals planned to oppose them on all three, with Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., predicting defeat of House-passed amendments to weaken federal school desegregation pressures.

Ribicoff's support was largely credited with Senate approval last week of a Southern amendment to apply the same school desegregation guidelines North and South. The Senate also passed an anti "busing" amendment.

Critical Battles Ahead for Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bolstered by two committee victories and talk of a "new mood" on civil rights, Southern Democrats began a series of critical Senate battles today on school integration, voting rights and the Supreme Court.

Liberals planned to oppose them on all three, with Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., predicting defeat of House-passed amendments to weaken federal school desegregation pressures.

Ribicoff's support was largely credited with Senate approval last week of a Southern amendment to apply the same school desegregation guidelines North and South. The Senate also passed an anti "busing" amendment.

THREE MOUSEKETEERS—Send a Mouse to College is the theme of a Mouse Bounce to be held at Kingston High School, March 6, sponsored by the Future Business Leaders. Proceeds will go toward the Cancer Crusade. Left to right are the group's adviser, Mrs. John Milano; Kathy Chmura, secretary and Dawn Fitzpatrick, president. Both students are seniors. One quarter and two pennies buys a mouse for cancer research. Last year $12 million from the American Cancer Society went for research. More will be needed this year due to government cutbacks. Marlboro Man Hurt in Crash

MARLBOROUGH — A 26-year-old Marlboro man was injured at 6:10 p. m. Thursday when his vehicle was involved in a collision with a tractor-trailer on Route 9W about one mile north of the Orange County line in this Ulster County town. James H. Woodward of Grand Street was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh. He reportedly suffered possible internal injuries.

Trooper George Hadlett of the Highland substation reported Woodward was northbound when his vehicle was in collision with a tractor-trailer being backed into the yard of the Bond Bread Co., by Edward Thompson, 23, of Darien, Conn. The latter was cited for unsafe backing.

Much Optimism For Survival Of Quintuplets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Kienast quintuplets have been taken off their special oxygen-enriched air and their doctor is "guardedly optimistic for their survival."

The names picked were Amy, Sarah, Abigail and William Gordon. But a spokesman at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said those names may be changed and are "not at all official."

"Those kids are doing okay," said one of the doctors after checking the infants born six weeks prematurely to 27-year-old Mrs. Margaret Kienast on Tuesday night. Mrs. Kienast and her 38-year-old husband already have two small children, a 4½-year-old daughter and an 18-month-old son.

Mrs. Kienast had taken fertility pills to overcome problems since before the birth of her oldest daughter. She got her first look at her new brood Wednesday. She visited them again Thursday.

The harbor master and his staff, customs and port police have abandoned their offices. A school, a teacher's training college and about 100 homes developed cracks and likewise were evacuated.

Pozzuoli, home of several hundred families of U.S. sailors stationed at 6th Fleet headquarters in Naples, is situated on a thin crust of earth over a sea of molten lava, believed linked to the system venting at nearby Mt. Vesuvius.

The area was known to the ancient Greeks as the "fiery fields" because of the steam and vapors pouring from cracks in the ground—cracks the ancients thought were the entrances to Hell.

For centuries, the city has risen and fallen slowly in the "slow earthquake" process but not since 1538, when a 400-foot hill sprang up, has the process been so noticeable.

City officials are now faced with the problem of rehousing hundreds more who may have to leave their homes. Those already forced out have been sent to rooms outside Pozzuoli.

Mia Farrow Gives Birth To Twin Boys

LONDON (UPI) — Actress Mia Farrow gave birth to twin boys in London's Avenue Clinic Thursday night and both mother and babies are reported in good condition.

Andre Previn, conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra, said the boys, his sons, would be named Matthew Phineas and Sacha Villiers.

Previn and Miss Farrow have announced plans to wed as soon as Previn's divorce from his wife, Dory, comes through.

"We are both terribly happy and terribly proud," he told newsmen after the babies were born. He and Mrs. Previn have two daughters.

Fewer Blacks In the Guard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department says the number of blacks in the National Guard has dropped to barely 1 per cent of the total force since the Guard has been used to put down riots.

The Pentagon said the Guard has increased by 11,000 men since December of 1967, but the number of blacks in the Guard declined by 320 in the same period. A spokesman said Guard enlistees tend to be middle class people, "men with something to protect."

City Girl, 17, Being Sought

A 17-year-old girl has been reported missing from her home since Wednesday night when she was seen on police Broadway, according to police who sought information as to her whereabouts.

Cathy Wittmer of 110 Elmendorf Street, was wearing blue denim and a black and white fur coat when last seen, according to her mother who reported her missing. She is about five feet, six inches tall and weighs about 155 pounds.

Counterprogramming at ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's new fall schedule is a study in the imperfect art of counterprogramming.

ABC traditionally waits until CBS and NBC announce their schedules, then blocks in the shows designed to lure that segment of the audience not accounted for by the opposition.

If, for instance, "Gunsmoke" and "Red Skelton" on Monday nights are not heavy enough for viewers 18-34, in goes "The Young Lawyers" for ABC.

On Wednesdays, where NBC's "Virginian" holds sway and CBS is offering its own gutsy "Storefront Lawyers," ABC set two situation comedies, the returning "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" and Danny Thomas in "Make Room for Granddaddy."

In all, ABC is bringing in 11 new shows and switching six returning series to what it considers more advantageous time periods.

Counterprogramming has not always worked well for ABC, but well enough. Monday night was a disaster this season and the network started anew for the fall. But on Tuesdays, ABC regularly wiped out the opposition and the night was the only one left unchanged.

Sunday night's only change is the substitution of "The Young Rebels" for "Land of the Giants." It's about a Yankee guerrilla unit during the American Revolution.

Among the new shows are two based on Broadway comedy hits by Neil Simon. "The Odd Couple" and an all-black "Barfoot in the Park." The latter will be the first television comedy to feature a young black couple.

The fourth comedy is "The Patridge Family," in which the mother joins her children in a rock band. It sounds amazingly like the Cowells.

ABC is adding three police shows, "Zig Zag," "Silent

Percentage Play Winds Up Loser

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is a mighty easy way for you readers to make the four-spade contract. Just look at the East and West hands and you can finesse against east's queen of trumps. There is also an easy way to go down if you are playing the hand. You play out the two top spades and wind up losing a trump and three clubs. This is the best percentage trump play if you haven't seen the East-West cards, but it is not the way to play the hand.

A winning player will plan to force his opponents to take the trump finesse for him.

He wins the heart lead, plays a diamond to the ace, ruffs a diamond in dummy, cashes the other high heart, ruffs a heart, ruffs his last diamond and leads out dummy's last heart.

Should East hold four hearts instead of West, South would discard a club but, since West holds the four hearts, South ruffs and plays a low club from his hand. There is method in this play. As long as South can play the clubs so as to make it impossible for East to win the third club lead and have a fourth club to lead, South is sure of his contract.

As it is, west will win the third club and lead the fourth one. South will be down to the ace-jack-10 of trumps, while dummy will be holding the king, eight of trumps and a club, and South will be sure of the force," and "Dan August," the first by any network since the violence issue reached a head nearly two years ago.

"Dial Hot Line" brings back Vince Edwards of "Ben Casey" in an hour drama about an experimenting psychological unit at a metropolitan hospital.

Besides "The Young Lawyers," another new program first seen on the Movie-of-the-Week is "The Immortal."

On Monday nights at 9 p.m. the network is offering NFL professional football games for those fans still eager after Sunday's action on NBC and CBS. After Dec. 14, this time reverts to the movies.

Shows being cast-off are "It Takes a Thief," "Paris 7000," "The Flying Nun," "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," "Here Comes the Brides," "Land of the Giants," "Jimmie Durante and the Lennon Sisters, Engelbert Humperdinck and Pat Paulsen.

Don Adams' "Hooray for Hollywood" on CBS Thursday night was an affectionate, irreverent and outrageously funny look at the film classics. Charlton Heston's mock serious narration of those fans still eager after Sunday's action on NBC and CBS, mimicry of Adams, Don Rickles After Dec. 14, this time reverts to the movies.

Campus Turmoil Continues

Guard Units in California City

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Under a shower of rocks and bottles 30 yelling and whooping policemen lobbing tear gas containers drove 50 demonstrators off the streets of a collegiate suburb of Santa Barbara, Calif., Thursday night.

The UPI reported that National Guard troops moved in to the Santa Barbara Armory early today following the third straight night of skirmishes between youths and law officers.

Maj. Donald J. Foley, public information officer for the Guard, said 30 troops were activated by orders of Gov. Ronald Reagan following a request by Santa Barbara Sheriff James Webster.

One demonstrator was shot by a campus policeman and another struck by a police "squad" car, a sheriff's spokesman said. Four policemen and a third demonstrator were injured. A police spokesman said there were "25 to 50 arrests."

It was the third consecutive night of turmoil centering near the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara. But the demonstrator turnout in defiance of a curfew was only half as large as the previous night, when a Bank of America branch building was destroyed by fire.

In Buffalo, N.Y., rebellious youths invaded the administration building of the State University of New York, smashed windows and glass display cases, ripped phones from walls and set a small fire.

Fire bombs touched off minor blazes in three other buildings.

Earlier in the day several hundred students—out of an enrollment of 21,000—roamed the campus pelting buildings, police and windows with stones and chunks of ice and ramming campus police headquarters with two automobiles.

The disturbance followed charges of discrimination against black athletes which had led to the cancellation of two basketball games.

In South Hadley, Mass., a group of black students occupied seven buildings at Mount Holyoke College shortly after midnight today and took control of the school's telephone switchboard.

A sit-in by about 30 California State College students at Fullerton ended Thursday night when helmeted police swept through the Letters and Science Building.

The students left hastily but lingered outside for about an hour, smashing the building doors and throwing rocks and bottles. They said they were protesting the arrest last week of two students accused of disrupting a campus speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The Santa Barbara suburb, Isla Vista, was comparatively quiet following Wednesday night's melee when 35 persons were arrested, and little additional vandalism was reported.

The youths milled aimlessly in the streets until the police, carrying plastic shields in one hand and night sticks in the other, charged in squads of 25 men. Officials did not call for the assistance of the National Guard, offered by Reagan earlier in the day.

Reagan declared a state of extreme emergency and ordered the attorney general to investigate the leadership of the throngs that had rampaged through the community the previous two nights.

County supervisors ordered a 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew in Isla Vista and banned loudspeakers and assemblies of more than three persons in the streets.

Student leaders held news conferences during the day and attributed the disturbance to police harassment, high rent for students in Isla Vista, the war in Vietnam and general dissatisfaction with the "establishment" in all phases of campus and community life.

The school chancellor, Vernon I. Cheadle, replied that efforts were being made to allow students to participate in decisions on faculty hiring and curriculum.

Reagan, two state legislators in Sacramento and a Florida congressman, Republican William C. Cramer, called for an investigation of the possible effect on Wednesday night's violence of an appearance on campus that afternoon by William Kunstler, defense attorney in the riot trial for the Chicago Seven.

Kunstler, in New York, Thursday, said: "I think probably the same thing would have happened if I had never been in California."

Would Keep Kunstler Away From Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A state assemblyman, accusing William Kunstler of "trying to stir up" trouble, wants to keep the Chicago 7 defense lawyer from appearing at the State University at Albany.

Troy Republican Neil W. Kelleher said Thursday he has demanded that SUNY authorities cancel Kunstler's appearance scheduled in March. Kunstler was to speak Thursday but postponed that appearance because he was tired from traveling and the recent trial.

The student organization sponsoring Kunstler's appearance has not set a definite date for the engagement.

Kelleher, sponsor of a proposal to dismiss teachers who refuse to pledge allegiance to the flag in classroom ceremonies, noted that the lawyer's appearance Wednesday in California was followed by a demonstration that included a fire at a Santa Barbara bank.

"If you are unwilling to cancel the appearance, I then request you to assure adequate protection for the vast majority of decent students on your campus and for the community of Albany," Kelleher said in a letter to university officials.

Kelleher said he personally called Chicago Circuit Judge Julius Hoffman to request that Kunstler be taken into custody "to prevent any further outbreaks."

"My conversation with Hoffman indicated that Kunstler is out on bail but is to appear May 3 after being given due time to handle legal matters," Kelleher said. "I asked Judge Hoffman to impose the four-year sentence for contempt immediately."

Abram 'In' Dutchess

NEW YORK (UPI) — Morris B. Abram said Thursday his opponents are trying to keep him from running in the Democratic primary for U.S. Senate.

The former president of Brandeis University who had planned to announce his candidacy next week held a news conference to deny that he was ineligible for the race.

Dutchess County Commissioner of Elections Robert Stevens said Wednesday night that Abram had registered in Poughkeepsie on Jan. 26. Stevens said that was too late for Abram to qualify for the June 23 Democratic primary.

The law requires a candidate to be an enrolled member of the party unless a majority of the state committee agrees he can go on the ballot. Following Stevens' announcement, State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns said there is such a large number of candidates it would be difficult for Abram to get the majority.

Abram was enrolled as a Democrat in Westchester County from 1962 to 1968, but then went to Brandeis in Waltham, Mass., while maintaining a residence in Pawling, Dutchess County.

Campus Turmoil Continues

Guard Units in California City

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Under a shower of rocks and bottles 30 yelling and whooping policemen lobbing tear gas containers drove 50 demonstrators off the streets of a collegiate suburb of Santa Barbara, Calif., Thursday night.

The UPI reported that National Guard troops moved in to the Santa Barbara Army early today following the third straight night of skirmishes between youths and law officers. Maj. Donald J. Foley, public information officer for the Guard, said 30 troops were activated by orders of Gov. Ronald Reagan following a request by Santa Barbara Sheriff James Webster.

One demonstrator was shot by a campus policeman and another struck by a police "squid" car, a sheriff's spokesman said. Four policemen and a third demonstrator were injured. A police spokesman said there were "25 to 50 arrests."

It was the third consecutive night of turmoil centering near the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara. The demonstrator turnout in defiance of a curfew was only half as large as the previous night, when a Bank of America branch building was destroyed by fire.

In Buffalo, N.Y., rebellious youths invaded the administration building of the State University of New York, smashed windows and glass display cases, ripped phones from walls and set a small fire.

Fire bombs touched off minor blazes in three other buildings. Earlier in the day several hundred students—out of an enrollment of 21,000—roamed the campus pelting buildings, police and windows with stones and chunks of ice and ramming campus police headquarters with two automobiles.

The disturbance followed charges of discrimination against black athletes which had led to the cancellation of two basketball games.

In South Hadley, Mass., a group of black students occupied seven buildings at Mount Holyoke College shortly after midnight today and took control of the school's telephone switchboard.

A sit-in by about 30 California State College students at Fullerton ended Thursday night when helmeted police swept through the Letters and Science Building.

The students left hastily but lingered outside for about an hour, smashing the building doors and throwing rocks and bottles. They said they were protesting the arrest last week of two students accused of disrupting a campus speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan.
